Russian America.

William H. Dall, Director of the Scientific Corps of the Western Union Telegraph Expedition, furnishes the New York Tribune the following valuable information about our new territory, which appears to us more accurate and reliable than the correspondence lately published:

I have crossed the Russian America in its widest part, from the sea to within a few miles of its eastern boundary, and have visited Sitka and other parts of interest, and am one of the only four white men, and the only American citizen, who has done so.

SITKA.

The town of Sitka, or more properly New Archangel, is situated on the Baronoff Island, in Sitka Bay. It is composed of some fifty log houses, well finished and comfortable, inclosed by a stockade. Outside this stockade is a large village of the Kalosh tribe of Indians. They are treacherous, bold, and the most objectionable Indians in the Territory. The town is built on and around an elevated rock, and is well defended by a heavy battery of old fashioned guns. The climate is warm and moist. The harbor is one of the best on the Pacific coast; entirely inclosed by islands; is never frozen or obstructed by ice. The hills, or low mountains, just back of the town are covered with a dense growth of timber, of large size, and so thick and luxuriant as to be almost impenetrable. The only drawback on the place is the literally constant rain. One day in a week fair and clear is a rarity, and the natives die rapidly with lung complaints and bronchial diseases, and also with the well known scourge of savage tribes, when brought into contact with the whites. Salmon of fine quality abound in profusion, as also other fish; deer may easily be obtained with a little trouble, and game birds may be shot a hundred yards from the stockades. Potatoes of medium size, barley and other summer vegetables, can be grown here, but suffer from sunlight and with the excessive rain.

THE ALEUTIAN ISLANDS

are many of them barren, volcanic islands, but among them are some fertile, and possessing good harbors. The most important of these is Ounalashka, where there is a Russian post, a first-rate harbor, and good soil. Cattle have been kept here, and potatoes and other vegetables grown.

THE ISLAND OF ST. PAUL,

in Behring Sea, a barren rock, frequented only by sea birds and seal, has for years past been of more importance to the Russian American Fur Company than all the rest of its fur producing country. At certain seasons the fur-seal resorts to it for breeding, and the valuable skins obtained here are numbered by the hundred thousands. Previously, indiscriminate slaughter of these animals nearly exterminated them; but, by the wise policy of the Russian American Fur Company of late years, only the old males have been killed, and their numbers have been wonderfully augmented. If Government allows fur traders indiscriminately to kill these valuable animals, they will soon, as in the past, become so rare as to destroy a valuable source of revenue.

THE PENINSULA OF ALASKA

I have not visited, and is little known, but from observations made while coasting along its shores I believe it to be barren, and principally composed of volcanic peaks, of great height and grandeur, the finest of which, Mount Shishaldinsky, near the Oonimak Pass, is visible on passing by the usual course from the Pacific to the Behring Sea. It is still active, while its sister peak, Mount Isanotky, rent from summit to base, presents the blackness of desolation, and is extinct.

THE NORTHERN PART,

and principal territory of Russian America, extends from Norton Sound to the Hudson's Bay territory, and should be [illegible] between Norton Sound and the Polar Sea to Behring Strait. It is erroneously and absurdly referred to by almost every writer I have seen, as a "[illegible] steppe," a "frozen marsh," a "barren table land," etc. On the contrary, it is a well watered, well wooded, rolling country, east of Norton Sound, crowded with high hills rather than mountains, whose sides, in great part, are covered thickly with spruce, birch and poplar, nearly to the top. It is drained by three river systems, one flowing into the Polar Sea, one into Norton Sound, and the last and greatest into Behring Sea, south of Norton Sound. The northern watershed is frozen for eight months in the year, and is unexplored. It is comparatively insignificant. That into Norton Sound is of still less importance. A tract of mountainous country separates it from the third and principal river system of Russian America. This tract is about 200 miles in breadth and generally wooded.

THE GREAT YOUKON

Takes its rise near the boundaries of British Columbia, and runs through about 700 miles of British territory before entering Russian America; where, within a hundred miles of the boundary line, it is met by the Porcupine (or Rat) river from the northwest, and, taking a southwest course, for 200 miles it passes through a low, level plain, bounded by low hills 30 miles away, but gradually rising in hight, and coming together finally; the river, previously from five to eight miles wide, and full of islands, here is confined to a narrow channel scarcely half a mile wide in many places. There are 150 of these mountains close to the river, and they are known to the English traders as the Ramparts. Near the end of the Ramparts is the rapid of the Lower Youkon. It has, however, a good channel, free from rocks. Just below this is the point of neutral ground called by the Indians Nuklukahyet, where all the tribes assemble to trade and enjoy their festivities in the spring. The point is formed by the Tannah river coming in from the southeast. It is a very large, rapid river, with many rocks and some falls.

From this point the southeast bank of the Youkon is generally low, with mountains in the distance, and the northwest, or right bank, is high, and often mountainous. The river widens and continues for nearly 300 miles more in a southwest direction. Here the Koyoukuk river comes in, and the Youkon takes a sudden turn southward, which course it follows about 400 miles, then takes a west by northwesterly course for 200 more, and empties by a dozen mouths into the sea. The last 200 miles the river is very wide, and the country generally low, but not without hills and mountains occasionally. While running southward it receives two rivers of some size; one, the Takeitsky river from the east, and the other the Auvik river from the west, some distance below the first. There are also a number of small rivers not worth enumerating here, which [illegible] the Youkon between Fort Youkon and the sea.

The principal mouths of the Youkon are the Koosilvak and the Kwichpak. The Russians, ascending by the latter mouth, naturally gave the name to the whole river; but the true name of the river, called by six tribes who inhabit it for 2,000 miles, is the Youkon (Great river), and the Indians on its banks call themselves Youkoni-kotana—"men of the Youkon." The Esquimaux, so called, who inhabit the sea coast only, gave the other uncouth name to the principal mouth.

The mouth of the Youkon enters into a very shallow sea, and though there is a fair channel over the bar, it would not be navigable for large vessels. After the snow is all melted and the river has fallen again, I can testify from my own observation that there is a good channel of from three to four feet of water, from Fort Youkon to the sea—having with three companions, made the first trip of that kind ever made, in open canoes, taking sixteen days only. The distance is estimated at 1,300 miles.

THE INHABITANTS

of this region are of two classes. Those on the peninsula before mentioned, and along the seacoast as far south, perhaps, as Alaska, are emigrants more or less from the Siberian shores, and would probably be called Esquimaux, though tall, active, well made, brave, industrious, and quite different from the typical Esquimaux. The inland tribes are of the North American Indian type, and require careful management. If fur traders are allowed to bring whisky into the country among the inland tribes, Russian America will become a hell on earth.

The number of these Indians has been greatly exaggerated. Five thousand is a large estimate for that part of Russian America lying north of Alaska.

THE PRODUCTS OF THE COUNTRY

at present comprise walrus tusks, whalebone, oil, beaver, marten, mink, fox, and other skins. The quantity of good fur is small, the Hudson Bay Fort Youkon tapping the trade and carrying by far the most valuable part of the fur out of the country. Being now American soil, notice to quit should be served on these trespassers. They are undoubtedly on the west side of the boundary line.

Lettuce, turnips, radishes, etc., have been successfully raised in this part of the Territory; but the ground being always frozen at the depth of three feet, other vegetables of slow growth could not mature. The summer lasts from the middle of May to the middle of September, and is as scorching hot as the winter is cold. I have seen the thermometer at 110 degrees in June and minus 60 degrees in January. About twelve feet of snow fell in 1866-7, and ice is generally about six or eight feet thick.

THE MINERALS

in this part of Russian America are valueless. Coal is found in small contorted seams, (which will not pay to work), in several localities on the Youkon. I can attest to the worthlessness of the mines on Ounga Island, south of Alaska, and am inclined to believe, from the accounts I have gathered from the Russians, that the mines in Kodiak, Cooks Inlet, and Oonalashka are of much the same kind. Iron is found in worthless beds of clay, and far up on the Youkon gold may be obtained, but under such circumstances that it is also valueless, being only workable two months in the year, and yielding barely enough to color the pan. Stains of copper have been found on rocks near Norton Bay, but no ledge or [illegible].

From the first of June till the 1st of September fair weather is the rule in Behring sea. After the 1st of August, however, strong northerly gales may be expected, the shallow water making a tremendous sea, and it is dangerous for vessels in Norton Sound, there being no good harbors. The ice breaks up about the 25th of May in the rivers, and sometimes nearly a month later leaves the river shores of Norton Sound; late in September, the small rivers; in October the Youkon; in November, the sea coast is ice-bound. Under careful protection this country might be made very valuable to the United States.

The Rich Men of Congress—Oakes Ames and Fernando Wood.

The Washington correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial thus sketches the moneyed men of Congress:

There are from half dozen to a dozen men of great wealth in the present Congress, whose riches represent great and sterling qualities in the possessors—oftener they are the result of [illegible] or inherited good luck. In sketching for your readers a few of the millionaires of Congress, it is not with a view of exalting any man [illegible] of his wealth, but to gratify a reasonable and almost universal curiosity to know the personality of conspicuous or successful men.

Oakes Ames, of Massachusetts, came into Congress in 1862, being then, as now, the head of one of the heaviest and wealthiest manufacturing firms in New England. Everybody who knows anything about the hardware trade (and who does not?) is familiar with the fact that "Ames' spades and shovels" are a leading staple of the business, without a stock of which no [illegible] store or corner store or cross-roads grocery in all the States or Territories is complete. Having early got a reputation for making good articles, the firm have [made] the most of it, and the stamp of "Ames" on a spade is a guarantee of excellence so universally [illegible], that from Cape Sable to Rio Janeiro you will find [illegible] in daily used. The [illegible] of this [manufac]ture are at Easton, a little [illegible] in Eastern Massachusetts, and the profits of the enormous manufacture are so [illegible] that Oakes Ames returned an income of $141,000 in 1866, and about as much more in 1867. At the [illegible] an income of $225,000 or a quarter of a [million] between [illegible]

With all this good fortune, Oakes Ames is not one of your puffed up, [illegible], but a homely, hearty man of business, plain, with and family dressed plainly as possible. The Congressman himself is a native of [illegible], believes not only in [illegible] rights, and [illegible] he never made a [illegible] (not being given to that particular "vanity"), is always found voting with the vanguard of the Republicans. He is sixty-three years old, and a bluff, hearty, good humored, off-hand man, who has just taken the biggest contract at railroad building to cast off his superfluous capital, that was ever made [illegible] in the world. It is the construction of the [illegible] mountain section of the Pacific Railroad, and involves thirty millions of dollars.

It would, doubtless, surprise very many knowing persons in the political world, to be told that Fernando Wood is a millionaire. Yet the worldly possessions of the ci-devant Mayor of New York and present member of Congress from that imperial city, were reckoned at three millions in 1861. Here is an instance of that rapid growth of fortune of which New York has witnessed so many. In 1830 Fernando Wood was a poor cigar manufacturer (or manufacturer of poor cigars, which ever the reader pleases), in one of the lower wards of New York city. A few years later he worked himself into the proprietorship of one of the most lucrative corner groceries in Washington street, then fronting on the North river, as West street does now. He sold ship stores, [illegible] and last, not least, liquor. The latter commodity being then, as now, in prime demand among boatmen and stevedores, and Wood having made advantageous arrangements for selling to these thirsty customers on credit, and taking it out of their week's wages every Saturday night, he dispensed more liquor than any other shop, and the profits were, of course, "upward of considerable." From this beginning, Wood branched out into the business of a general merchant and ship owner, and, being gifted with great shrewdness, he soon got command of very considerable means. In 1841 he ran for Congress and was elected. He was twice chosen Mayor of New York, (from 1854 to 1856), and it is not commonly believed in that immaculate city that his political career contributed to impoverish him in the least.

In marrying the accomplished and well educated daughter of Drake Mills, one of the merchant princes of New York, Fernando Wood [illegible] another step in his successful career as a man of wealth and of the world. It was Drake Mills' brother who gave his name to the celebrated Mills House in Charleston, and Drake Mills himself, when in the great wholesale grocery house of Smith, Mills & Co., used to be the New York consignee of huge crops of rice from the Carolina marshes—a highly profitable trade.

Fernando Wood is personally precisely the reverse of the style of man popularly associated with his name. Tall, slender, lithe, pale-faced, almost silver haired, with a fashionably cut grizzled mustache, smooth-shaven face, highly polished manners, and sleepless [illegible] and will, Fernando Wood represents at sixty-five years, a life-long struggle to conquer fortune, position and a name, in the midst of obstacles and in the teeth of a reputation which would have quickly ruined an ordinary man. He is now, for the third time, in Congress, and seems to have a [illegible] affinity for political life.

Robert J. Walker on Financial Matters.—Robert J. Walker, says a Washington [illegible], has been urged by the President and others to give his views on finance, which he had consented to do. He advocates the following measures:

First—The immediate resumption of specie payments, to be effected by a foreign loan, as proposed by him in December, 1864. This, he believes, can be obtained at par in gold, at six per cent. This would make all our greenbacks equal to gold, as also our national bank currency and all deposits in the national banks, and put our whole bonded debt of $2,000,000,000 at par in gold. This, he thinks, would add at once at least $1,000,000,000 to the active wealth of the country as represented by currency and negotiable credit, and prevent a collapse. Gov. Walker is opposed alike to paper expansion and contraction, as both necessarily leading, in his judgment to repudiation.

Mr. Reynolds, the dramatist, once met a free and easy actor, who told him that he had passed three festive days at the seat of the Marquis and Marchioness of ——, without any invitation. He had gone there on the assumption that as my lord and lady was not on speaking terms, each would suppose the other had asked him, and so it turned out.

A cynical brute says, the greatest affront you can offer to a woman, is to tell her that she is old. Lord A——, a courtier, used to say to his lady, every new year's day: "Well, madam, what age will your ladyship please to be this year?"

[From the San Francisco [illegible]]

The recently published testimony of General Grant before the Impeachment Committee will go far to remove the [illegible] of his political character which has been [illegible] by many leading Republicans. WEDNESDAY MORNING, DEC. 25, 1867.

Christmas—The Old Times and the New.

The prelude to Milton's incomparable "Hymn on the Nativity," begins with the following stanza:

This is the month, and this the happy morn,
Wherein the Son of Heaven's Eternal King,
Of wedded maid and virgin mother born,
Our great redemption from above did bring;
For so the holy sages once did sing,
That he our deadly forfeit should release,
And with his Father work us perpetual peace.

Yet it is not positively known that the 25th of December is the day of the Savior's birth. This day was not fixed upon till sometime in the 4th [illegible], and though it was not [illegible] that there was positive proof of the identification of the day, yet the decision has since been uniformly accepted. Of the origin of Christmas festivities, but little is known. The day was observed by the ancient Saxons and other Northern nations, and even before the spread of Christianity and its [illegible] at Rome, the 25th of December was observed as a day of festivity. The birth of Mithras was [illegible] by the Romans on this day; and by the [illegible] the Saturnalia the greatest of all the Roman feasts, which had formerly occupied but a single day,—(the 19th of December) was extended to a period of [illegible] days, so that it lasted to the night of the 25th. During this period all persons were on an equality—or rather, the regular [illegible] was [illegible] reversed, inasmuch as the [illegible] were obliged to do [illegible] to their [illegible]. The [illegible] of making presents on Christmas [illegible] to be derived from some old [illegible] though the [illegible] was [illegible] times at the celebration of the birth of Sol, which took place on this day. It may be mentioned as an indication of the regard in which this day was held several centuries ago, that at the seige of Orleans in 1428, a truce was [illegible] in order that both parties might [illegible], which they did in the heartiest [illegible], and on the next day [illegible] hostilities. When the Puritan Parliament governed [illegible], Christmas was [illegible] and holly and ivy [illegible]. But after the [illegible] again [illegible] its old [illegible].

The [illegible] of old [illegible], which have [illegible] us, are, in general, very quaint, and [illegible] of the curious, [illegible]. [illegible] calling them [illegible] "singers" were wont to go about from [illegible] on Christ[illegible] and sing carols for a [illegible], a [illegible] of the good [illegible] in every house for the [illegible] that the [illegible] were not unmindful of the [illegible] of the occasion:

[illegible]

A [illegible] was spiced ale. It is said by one of the old writers: "Mark you, sir, a pot of ale consists of four parts: imprimis, the ale, the toast, the ginger and the nutmeg;" and another in the following [illegible], reminds one of the man who was going on a journey, and had provided a great deal of whisky as viaticum—and being asked if he wanted anything else, replied that he would take "a little more whisky."

"Bryng us in good ale, and bryng us in good ale;
For our blyssed lady's sake, bryng us in good ale."

The [illegible] was devoted to games, a great variety of which were played. From [illegible] of these, the games which are played in our times are derived. Cards were introduced at a later date, and [illegible] played very commonly on such occasions.

We have an allusion in Shakspeare to the tradition that at the crowing of the cock in the morning, "night [illegible] for [illegible] the earth and his to [illegible] own [illegible], and that just before the [illegible]

Wh[illegible] our Saviour's birth is celebrated,
This bird of dawning singeth all the night long;
And then they say no spirit stirs abroad;
The nights are wholesome; then no planet strikes;
No fairy takes, nor witch hath power to harm,
So hallowed and so gracious is the time.

There is an almost endless variety of old traditions about Christmas, which, "covered with frost of ages," have come down to us. Stories of a miraculous nature are told about events which are said to have happened on this day; and even yet, some of them are received with superstitious veneration. But even in England, where Christmas is still observed with more earnestness than elsewhere, the celebrations have lost their primitive character, and little remains of the various customs which used to mark the festival.

Oregon and Montana.

From a letter written at Deer Lodge (Montana) dated November 26th, we are permitted to make some extracts which we think will be read with interest here. The writer is a well informed gentleman, as his letter will show; and his observations may be relied on as accurate and worthy of attention. He says that our iron ought to find a market in that Territory, as no iron mines have yet been discovered there; that there is a great demand already in the Territory for that commodity, which is likely to be speedily increased an hundred fold; that there can be no doubt whatever that Montana is the richest in gold and silver lodes of all our Territories; that enough have already been developed to prove the exhaustless wealth of the Territory; that Oregon ought to be brought into close relations with Montana, and that this can be done if the matter is once properly taken in hand. Reference is made in the letter to a book lately published by Granville Stuart, Esq., one of the leading business men of the Territory, in which the resources and capabilities of the country are set forth in a graphic and truthful manner. After these preliminary remarks, the letter continues as follows:

It is not problematical—the wealth of Montana has been demonstrated beyond a doubt. It consists of quartz lodes. They have been discovered everywhere in the country, and are daily being discovered. The bulk of them are on the Western slope, and are within three hundred and fifty miles of steamboat navigation on the Columbia river. Those on Flint creek are said to be richest. Several mills are already at work there, although the discoveries were only made last winter and spring. Thousands of claims have been pre-empted in that district. At Butte, distant from Flint, about sixty miles, there are millions of feet of rich paying quartz. Here the claims are principally held by the discoverers. One of these owns as much as twenty-five thousand feet. He is the richest man on the continent if he can succeed in developing his interests.

WHO WILL HAVE THE PIE.

All the riches lie dormant—slumbering in the bosom of Mother Earth. As they are dug up—and dug up they surely will be—this wealth will float in the channel which the laws of trade will certainly find.

PORTLAND AND ST. LOUIS.

That it is in the power of the capitalists and business men of Portland to secure this wealth, is beyond question. They can build up Portland to a great emporium of trade. Have they the requisite energy and enterprise to do it? Men trade where they can buy cheapest. But there is no known reason why Portland should not sell as cheap as St. Louis. The St. Louis merchant and the Portland merchant both buy their goods in New York; and the cost of transportation to St. Louis from New York, is about the same as to Portland from New York.

QUICK RETURNS.

There is this much in favor of Portland over St. Louis. It will require seven or eight months to [illegible] out of a St. Louis investment. Merchants [illegible] here about the middle of November for St. Louis. Their goods arrive there about the month of June. We say, the Portland merchant can leave in February, and have his goods here by the first of May. He can, therefore, make two turns of his money before the St. Louis merchant can get his goods [illegible]. Besides, the Portland merchant will be able to sell on a depleted market, exhausted by the consumption of the winter months; and the St. Louis merchant will be forced to sell on a glutted market; for as soon as steamers begin to arrive, all commodities at any center [illegible] fall in price.

GOLD AND GREENBACKS.

Here is the rub; a St. Louis merchant is making a good profit to sell at cost and transportation; he buys for greenbacks and sells for gold. But your Portland merchant sells for gold; and the Montana merchant has to buy for gold and sell for gold. That is his disadvantage; he cannot compete with the St. Louis merchant, because you will not [illegible] able him. Goods bear about the same price in St. Louis in currency as they do in Portland in gold. Moreover freights are paid in the one case in greenbacks—in the other in gold.

MISSOURI COLUMBIA RIVERS.

Everything is in favor of the Columbia river. Navigation of the Missouri is precarious and uncertain. For the last two seasons, boats have been [illegible] in reaching Fort Benton. Next year they may not. Everything indicates that they will not be able to do so the coming spring and summer. In that case, boats will have to discharge their freight at some point on the river remote from here, and which will subject owners of goods to enormous charges for freight. The Columbia river route is always sure and certain; and goods can reach here from Portland in forty days, while it takes upwards of one hundred to reach here from St. Louis.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE.

Literally nothing has been done by Portland to secure the Montana trade. The sleep of death seems to have been upon Portland. Men find their way here from the Columbia as best they can. On the contrary, St. Louis has been up and doing. From Walla Walla here a good wagon road might have been made; not a blow has been struck. On the contrary, those in the interest of St. Louis have made a splendid road, through an almost impassable country, to Helena, from Fort Benton. Many thousands of dollars have been expended in this way. Besides, the capital of St. Louis has been expended in machinery, companies have been organized and are working in and developing the quartz interests here. The St. Louis Board of Trade has taken the matter in hand; what have your business men of Portland done? Has she a single house here? I know of none, save Loeb & Co., of Helena active, accommodating, energetic, money-making men.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE.

Let some of your business men come here; let them see what they are letting go by for want of energy and attention. Your manufacturing interests are just beginning to assume a determined shape. Foundries are being erected, it is said, on a large scale, in Portland. Go to work making engines, boilers, mills everything necessary to crush out the money clasping in these huge quartz deposits. Here you will find a ready market for this character of machinery. But you must help us to build roads to get the machinery here; you must take hold of the quartz; offer encouragement to men of property here to come and trade with you, and aid us in getting here what we buy of you. With energy there is no limit to the growth of your city; but if you continue in your sleep, you will have already seen the limit of your growth.

In August, 1861, Eugene Casserly, who, it may be presumed, has been elected U. S. Senator for California, said:

There must be debt and taxation is inevitable. It is the price which great nations have to pay for their power, their position and their rights. The people that submits to dismemberment, loss of place and nationality, until after a tremendous struggle, is doomed on earth. Its history is written and the volume closed. Its sun has gone down while yet it was day."

This is something different from the current Democratic talk of that period.

A Washington dispatch of the 18th states that Gen. Grant has written another letter which was the general theme of conversation, and that many leading Republicans, formerly lukewarm in his support, had avowed themselves strongly in favor of his nomination.

A dispatch from Washington, dated December 16th, states that Isaac L. Gibbs has again been nominated by the President for Governor of Idaho. The nomination "lacks confirmation." That's what's the matter with Gibbs' prospects.

The trial of Jeff. Davis was postponed until March, in order that the Chief Justice might preside. The Chief Justice's other engagements rendered the postponement unavoidable.

The Union members of the California Legislature, in a late caucus meeting, passed a resolution unanimously endorsing Gen. Grant for the Presidency.

Christmas Day.

The following highly finished stanzas are from Keble's hymn on Christmas Day:

What sudden blaze of song
Spreads o'er the expanse of Heaven?
In waves of light it thrills along,
Th' angelic signal given—
"Glory to God!" from yonder central fire
Flows out the echoing lay beyond the starry choir.

Like circles widening round
Upon a clear blue river
Orb after orb, the wondrous sound
Is echoed on forever:
"Glory to God on high, on earth be peace,
And love toward men of love—salvation and release."

"ROLLING" A BROTHER.—The Unionist says that a stranger came to that town a few days ago to deliver a political lecture. He was a Democrat and delivered a high-toned address. So far, all went well enough; but the strange lecturer now accuses his constitutional brothers with having "rolled him," after the performance; that is to say, "gone through him," or, in other words, robbed him! Now this is what Artemus Ward would have called "too much." What encouragement is there for Democratic speakers to go to Salem, if their carpet bags and clean shirts, if any, are to be thus confiscated by their Democratic brethren? What apostle of Democracy can be induced to go there, hereafter, with the probability of being "rolled?"

The following appeared as an editorial paragraph in the San Francisco Examiner on the 17th inst. The Examiner is the leading Democratic paper of California:

In this connection, we repeat what we said the other day, that the million of souls in the city of New York have produced, within the last twelve months, more acts of flagrant crime, than the entire population of the Southern States.

The Democratic majority in the city of New York, at the November election, was sixty thousand.

GRANT CLUBS.—A Grant Club has been organized at Albany. E. F. Pyfsell is President. The Eugene Journal publishes a notice calling a meeting to organize a Grant Club at that place.

RECREATION AND AMUSEMENT.—It is necessary that mortals should have some amusement, and since our city is not blessed with an elegant theatre, or some place of innocent amusement, it is the duty of every man to see that his acquaintances coming to our city should at least be pleased, and how can you please them better than by taking them to KOHN & FISHEL'S, No. 91 Front street, to buy one of those handsome suits they keep for sale.

With every nice Toy that could talk, walk or swim.
I've Musical Work Boxes and Gaiters for the fair
And Gifts for the Gents that are both rich and rare,
Whilst my Budget includes the nicest new Toys
Intended as Gifts to good Girls and Boys!
I've the Ark in which Grandfather Noah was kept
When all [illegible] from the world were swept,
(For men in those days [illegible] in evil persist,
So the world was washed by an Orig[illegible])
I've Babies of Kittens, of wax and of [illegible],
(They were all [illegible]), and well put together;
I've Vases and Cups nicely gilded outside,
And little Cock Horses for Bobbies to ride;
I've Cannons and Pistols which [illegible],
For the [illegible] they hold neither wadding or load.
I've steamboats that run—you just wind them in front
And they'll beat the Cascade or the Wilson G. Hunt.
I've a new [illegible]. It can never explode,
'Twas built for the use of Gaston's Railroad.
I've Engines that play. Set them down on the floor
And they'll throw greater streams than old '3' or new '4.'
I've Furniture, Fiddles, and French Fusiliers,
Soldiers that look like B. B. Pioneers.
I've [illegible] of the Guns and Pistols as well,
And the new kind of Drum that rings like a bell,
I've [illegible] all [illegible] I've Grace [illegible],
And you'll find at McCORMICK'S a [illegible] Toys more,
On FRONT STREET the [illegible],
Where TOYS are as plenty as bees in a hive;
Go there and buy them—this is my [illegible];
His Prices are Low and his Stock is the Best.

[L. S.] Given at my Palace in Wonderland, this 30th day of the eleventh month, being the first year of the reign of George the Third in Webfoot.

CHARTRES COFFEE!

Manufactory Established in June, 1851.

STEAM FOW[illegible], NOS. 685 AND 687 FRONT ST.

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities. CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned, who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, [illegible] nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise, which commands here, and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the [illegible] of some [illegible], and every day he sees increasing the number of those who, by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior [illegible] as for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after trial, but only adds to the favorable opinion of the economers, the very flattering [illegible] unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned, and placed on their guard against this practice.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

The Turn-Verein's Masquerade.—The long talked of masquerade, under the auspices of the Turn-Verein Society of Portland, took place at their hall, on First street, Monday night, the 23d inst. The affair was altogether select, no one being admitted unless furnished with a ticket by the committee of managers, and the number was necessarily limited to the capacity of the hall, which is not large enough to comfortably accommodate more than about forty-five or fifty couples. The hall was elegantly decorated with evergreens, flags, pictures, etc. The company began to arrive about half past seven o'clock and were all in about half past nine. The masquerading in general was very perfect, the costumes being mostly true to the characters represented and the acting better suited to the characters than is usual on such occasions. The variety of costumes was much greater than at the masquerade of last year, there being not more than two or three, of the whole number of masks that could be termed duplicates. The facilities for obtaining costumes were much superior on this occasion, Mr. Wilsted having manufactured a great number of them both upon private orders and upon his own account. Besides these, there were many very costly ones ordered from San Francisco. In most cases the disguises were perfect, defying the closest scrutiny. Of course, under such circumstances, there were very many amusing blunders made as to identity of persons, but everything of this kind, as it should, only tended to the general hilarity and enjoyment of the company. Those who have attended these parties will understand very well, the impossibility of describing the general effect of so large a number of utterly dissimilar characters, commingling in one scene, and such persons will not expect a minute description. The most we can do is to notice incidents and individuals, and in doing this, we shall necessarily omit the mention of many masks who sought only disguise, instead of attempting to personate particular characters. We have the consent of many to make use of full names, but we learn that there are others who prefer not to appear in public print, and we therefore compromise the matter by using only the initials of the parties. Those who will know who are meant and outsiders will have a chance to exercise their guessing powers. One of the best jokes of the evening occurred at the unmasking, when a dashing, fine looking Tambourine Girl, attached to Mr. O. F., an Organ Grinder, was discovered to be Mr. L. W., a prominent merchant of Front street. He had played the character during the whole evening, baffling half a hundred attempts at detection. Another good one was that of Mr. I. E., who personated a Black Devil with great success. Mr. A. G., a First street merchant, was a genuine Down East Yankee, with an old bell-crown white hat, big enough for Uncle Sam himself, an excellent caricature. Mr. L. Blum wore a suit printed all over with the cabalistic letters and figures, S. T. 1860. X, and an immense bottle, labelled Plantation Bitters, as a head piece. Mr. R. G., as Punch was a [illegible]. Mr. J. M. was dressed as a Spanish [illegible], and looked and acted the [illegible] admirably. Mr. M. G. and Mr. H. P. made very lively Harlequins. Mr. P. M. was a [illegible] Officer, with a dress of great [illegible] and richness. Mr. L. G. took the character of an Indian Chief, on the war path. Mr. O. M. M. was a [illegible] clown. Mr. T. D. a Zouave. Mr. H. S. was a gorgeously dressed Turk. Mr. J. B. personated Daniel [illegible]. Mr. L. S. B., as a Russian Count, was richly dressed. Mr. L. H. L. was perfectly [illegible] as a Pierrot. A group of figures composed of Messrs. M. R. as Gen. G., D. R. as a drummer, and D. F. as a private soldier, [illegible] all that [illegible] of a regiment of 900 men who had fought and defeated five times their number and then had [illegible] on Turn-Verein Hall, to recuperate and [illegible] recruits. Mr. M. F. bore the character of [illegible], the Sad [illegible]. Mr. T. D. was richly dressed as an Italian Count. Mr. M. S. represented Don Carlos. Mr. A. G. was dressed as an English Sports[man]. Mr. J. F. took the character of Othello. Mr. J. S. as a [illegible] Negro was among the best [illegible] of the [illegible]. Mr. J. M. represented a Minister and afterwards a Soldier. Mr. I. B. as a Chimney Sweep was perfect. Mr. P. R. wore a rich Court Dress of the 15th century. Mr. R. G. as an Equestrian [illegible], with a quantity of genuine fish bladders, was a first rate character. Mr. L. D. was a Fireman. Mr. L. B. made a first rate Postillion. Mr. J. E. B. represented Robinson in a full and accurate character. Mr. J. C. was as jolly a Friar as it was ever our fortune to meet, he had some spiritual [illegible], not exactly orthodox, however, to offer all his [illegible]. Besides these there were several other [illegible] characters we failed to make out. Of the ladies, the palm of acting [illegible] due to Mrs. L. R., who personated a wild, [illegible] and rattle-brained School Girl. Miss O. was [illegible] as the Daughter of the Regiment. Miss R. R. was beautifully dressed as a Russian Princess. Miss B. [illegible] Star was a very pretty [illegible]. Miss J. B. as Evening Star was equally so. Miss M. W. personated an unsophisticated Island Girl. Mrs. H. H. wore a very unique and original [illegible]. Mrs. A. G. [illegible]; her head piece was a [illegible]. Mrs. A. G. was in a richly [illegible] costume. Mrs. W. in Turkish Princess. Miss W. a Page. Mrs. B. O. wore the German Turner colors. Miss J. M. was elegantly dressed as a Hungarian Lady of rank. Miss O. was a first rate [illegible]. Miss L. M. and Mrs. J. L. were prettily dressed as Highland [illegible]. Mrs. E. K. and Mrs. D. R. [illegible] Russian [illegible]. Miss P. wore a very pretty and rich Page's dress and personated the character well. Mrs. L. F. was a Nun. These were not by any means all of the ladies who were in character [illegible], but they were the most [illegible]. The maskers removed their faces at about eleven o'clock and then the real [illegible] of the [illegible] were at an end, and the sociability of the [illegible] rose at once to the highest height. The managers had secured the services of the M[illegible] Band which, as at first organized, [illegible] Mr. Everest's leadership, is one of the best in the [illegible]. Prof. Cardinell [illegible] as Director of the dancing. At twelve o'clock a splendid lunch was served in the hall adjoining the Turners' Hall. The festivities were continued till near four o'clock, when the party, [illegible] with dancing, broke up and retired. The whole affair was most successfully managed, and we doubt if a [illegible] present failed to spend a most happy evening. The committee of managers to whom the credit of this is due, consisted of Messrs. Isaac [illegible]feld, [illegible] Blum and N. A. Birstel. Our acknowledgments are due to the committee and to other gentlemen, too numerous to mention, for assistance in promises of the affair.

Christmas Eve at Good Templars' Hall.—The members of the several lodges of Good Templars of this city [illegible] in Christmas festivities at the Hall, corner of [illegible] and Alder street, last evening. The room had been beautifully decorated under the direction of the [illegible] for that party. All around the walls were [illegible] of evergreens, [illegible] and, circles, ovals, [illegible] with U. B. [illegible] for back ground. Just [illegible] the doorway, in large gilt [illegible], was suspended [illegible] word "W[illegible]" in the position [illegible] by the Worthy Chief Templar, was elevated [illegible] and in [illegible] side of this were the Christmas trees, being full of such fruits as Christmas trees [illegible] bear. [illegible] in front of all were the names of all of the three lodges which meet regularly in the hall—"Crystal, [illegible], Portland"—in detached gilt letters. The [illegible] effect of the decorations, was striking and singularly beautiful. At about half past eight, everything being in readiness for the ceremonies, Mr. Jacob [illegible] the Wage to order and then the [illegible] were entered upon and conducted in the following order: 1st, music by the choir. 2d, [illegible] of "Christmas," a mythical character, personated by Mr. Richard Cardwell. "Christmas" advanced to the foot of [illegible] the one from the side scene and delivered a brief address, and then retired and sat down upon the [illegible] as the presiding genius of the festival. 3d, [illegible] "Christmas" 4th, Entry of Santa Claus, in [illegible] by Mr. [illegible] Ormsby. Old Santa Claus came [illegible] and [illegible] surveyed the scene [illegible] him, examined the Christmas trees, somewhat [illegible], and [illegible] to be highly delighted with the crop they bore, he sounded a signal at which six or eight [illegible], dressed in harlequin costume, popped out from [illegible] each tree. They ranged themselves in two lines on the right and left of Santa Claus, saluted the audience, Christmas and Santa Claus, and then at a signal [illegible] the distribution of presents. This part of the programme was conducted, as is usual, with a vast amount of [illegible]. Upon the conclusion of the distribution [illegible], Mr. Stitzel announced that a sister of the order in this city is in destitute circumstances, whereat [illegible] passed around a contribution box, and [illegible] in a handsome sum for her relief. This concluded the [illegible] of the [illegible], after which the seats were taken out of the body of the hall and the assembly [illegible] betook themselves to conversation and social enjoyment of Christmas Eve.

Trinity Church Sunday School Festival.—At two o'clock yesterday, the Trinity Church Sunday School met at the Church. The exercises commenced with a short address to the scholars from the Rector. Then followed the [illegible], giving the pupils on the nature and significance of the festival of Christmas. Two Christmas carols were then sung by the children. After this the school and [illegible], with the Rector at their head, marched in procession to the Turn Verein Hall where the Christmas tree was prepared. Here the scholars sung that fine old Christmas carol, "We three Kings of Orient Are,"—the solos being sung by Masters Holt Wilson, James McCraken and Edward Tracy. Then commenced the distribution of presents and the plucking of the fruit from the tree. The children, about one hundred in number—with many of their parents and friends, appeared to enjoy the feast of pleasant things. At last the trees were stripped of their beautiful burdens, and the little ones with arms, [illegible] and pockets full, wended their way home rejoicing.

Christmas Display at the Market Houses.—In the course of our rounds yesterday, we noticed that the markets, those great ministers to the comforts of Christmas were fitted up in very tasteful, if not gorgeous style, the meats being fatter than usual, more neatly dressed, and hung up in more tempting display. Mr. A. M. Johnson, in particular, had a shop crammed full of great fat quarters of beef, dozens of mutton and venison carcasses, a porker of about 400 pounds and lots of pigs just the right size for a family party roast.

Fireman's Ball.—It is hoped that everybody will remember the ball to-night, given by Protection Engine Co. No. 4, in honor of the arrival of their new steam Engine. Everything possible has been done to insure a gay, festive and happy time. Those interested in the success of the Company, if party goers, should patronize the ball by their presence or the purchase of tickets.

Social Gathering.—We are requested to announce that the Unitarian Society will hold a social gathering this evening at their Chapel, corner of Yamhill and Seventh street, to welcome their pastor, Rev. T. J. Elliott. All friends interested in liberal Christianity are cordially invited to attend.

Christmas Eve Festival.—Last evening Christmas Eve Festivals were celebrated at the Congregational and Presbyterian churches, by the respective Sunday schools of each. The M. E. Sunday School had a Christmas tree at the church.

No Paper to-morrow.—The Daily Oregonian will not be [illegible] to-morrow, the proprietor, editors, printers and everybody else, having invitations to attend Christmas festivities.

Treasure Receipt.—Wells, Fargo & Co., received last evening by the Hunt, $7,000 in treasure from the towns above.

To Sail.—The steamship [illegible] will sail hence for San Francisco, on Thursday, the 26th, at 5 o'clock P. M.

The Portland Draying and Hack Co.—The incorporators of this company had a meeting on Monday evening and organized by the election of C. Bills, President; J. B. Camp, Vice President; Ed. F. Albright, Secretary and Treasurer. The Directors are Al. Zeiber, H. Saxer and Frank A. Hoeg. Subsequent to the organization, the officers and several of the stockholders had another meeting at the Gem to discuss a supper of oysters and the usual accompanying etceteras. We had the honor to be a guest and participator in this last meeting, and we can attest that the newly made officers are entirely competent to manage—a plate of oysters.

Freight for Portland.—The steamer Montana brought a little over four hundred tons of merchandise consigned to the dealers of this city. She arrived about half past two o'clock yesterday morning, and such expedition was made in discharging, that at 3 o'clock P. M., she was ready to begin taking in cargo for her return trip to San Francisco.

Recorder's Court.—Hollister McGuire, a young boy, was tried before a jury in the Recorder's Court, yesterday, on a charge of disturbing a religious meeting at the M. E. Church, Sunday evening. The boy was acquitted, it not appearing to the satisfaction of the jury that he intended to disturb the meeting. Another boy, Thos. Shortel, was tried on the same charge the day before, and was acquitted for the same reason.

Sworn In.—On Monday, Mr. W. H. Weed, lately elected Chief Engineer of the Portland Fire Department, and Wm. O. Bruen, elected 1st Assistant Engineer, were sworn into office, by Mr. S. C. Mills, Secretary of the Board of Delegates. Mr. F. M. Arnold, elected 2d Assistant, was not sworn in, and there are reports that he will decline to serve.

Masonic Election.—At a stated communication of Corvallis Lodge No. 14, A. F. and A. M., held at their Hall in Corvallis, Dec. 11th, 1867, the following officers were elected: D. G. Clarke, W. M.; E. Holgate, S. W.; Geo. Roberts, J. W.; Wm. Fieldner, Treas.; B. W. Wilson, Sec.; J. B. Lee, S. D.; Minor Quick, J. D.; F. E. Robinson, Tyler.

Produce.—Arrived per steamer Alert from Oregon City yesterday, 1,118 qr sks flour, 5 bales woolen goods 10 coops fowls, 20 hlf bbls and 6 boxes produce, 2 sks dried fruit, 7 kegs pickles, 210 sks feed, 61 boxes apples, 3 cases mdse, 1 hog, 234 bags wheat and 4 boxes grapes.

Prospect of High Water Again.—The Willamette, for the last two or three days has been rising, and yesterday, it began to come up rapidly. It is the opinion of boatmen that there is a fair prospect for a higher stage of water than we have yet had.

Special Notice to the Ladies.—Just received, per steamer Oriflamme, a splendid lot of the most elegant Furs ever brought to this place. Also, some beautiful Velvet Cloaks, and several other articles suitable for Christmas presents. For particulars, call on Mrs. C. Levy, 89 First street.

Vigilance Hook & Ladder Co. No. 1.—Members are requested to meet at their hall at 10 o'clock A. M. to-day, to assist in housing the Steam Engine of Protection No. 4. EDWIN D. BACKENSTOS, Sec'y.

Protection Engine Company No. 4.—The members of Protection Engine Company are requested to meet at their House in full uniform at 10 o'clock A. M. JAMES BENNETT, Sec'y.

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER.
THE UNIVERSAL REMEDY FOR INTERNAL AND EXTERNAL COMPLAINTS!

At this period there are but few of the human race unacquainted with the merits of the Pain Killer; but while some extol it as a liniment, they know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally, while others use it internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally, and it stands alone, unrivalled by all the great catalogue of Family Medicines, and its sale is universal and immense. The demand for it from India and other foreign countries is equal to the demand at home, and it has become known in these far off places by its merits.

Just Cause for being Alarmed.—When a Cough has been running for a long time, and you begin to feel a pain settling in upon your lungs, attended with tightness across the chest, it is high time that you should awaken to the danger of your disease, which is fast running into Consumption. Now, before it is too late, use ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM, which will cure the disease, and all will be well with you. For sale by the Dealers in Family Medicines generally.

HOSTETTER'S ## CELEBRATED STOMACH BITTERS!
A Pure and Powerful Tonic,
Corrective and Alternative, of wonderful efficacy in Diseases of the ## STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS.
PROTECTIVE PROPERTIES.
Prevents Fever and Ague and [illegible] of Fevers,
Fortifies the System against [illegible] and the evil effects of unwholesome water, invigorates the organs of digestion and the bowels;
Steadies the Nerves and tends to Prolong Life.
REMEDIAL PROPERTIES.
Cures Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Sick and Nervous Headache, General Debility, Nervousness, Depression of Spirits, Constipation, Colic, Intermittent Fevers, Sea Sickness, Cramps and Spasms, and all complaints of either sex arising from Bodily Weakness, whether inherent in the system or PRODUCED BY SPECIAL CAUSES.

NOTHING THAT IS NOT WHOLESOME, GENIAL, and restorative in its nature, enters into the composition of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This popular preparation contains no mineral of any kind; no deadly botanical element; no fiery excitant; but it is a combination of the extracts of rare balsamic herbs and plants, with the purest and mildest of all diffusive stimulants.

The weak stomach is rapidly invigorated, and the appetite restored by this Tonic, and hence it works wonders in cases of Dyspepsia, and in less [illegible] of Indigestion. Acting as a gentle and painless [illegible], as well as upon the liver, it also invariably relieves the Constipation superinduced by irregular action of the digestive and secretive organs.

Persons of feeble habit, liable to Nervous Attacks, Lowness of Spirits, and Fits of Languor, find [illegible] and permanent relief from the Bitters. The testimony on this point is conclusive, and from both sexes.

As a Genuine Tonic, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS produce effects which must be experienced or witnessed before they can be fully appreciated. In cases of Constitutional Weakness, Premature Decay, and Debility and Decrepitude arising from old age, it exercises the electric influence. In the convalescent stages of all diseases it operates as a delightful invigorant. When the powers of nature are relaxed, it operates to re-enforce and re-establish them.

Last, but not least, it is the only safe stimulant, being manufactured from sound and innocuous materials, and entirely free from the acrid elements present more or less in all the ordinary tonics and stomachics of the day.

Christmas Carols.

BY FLORENCE PERCY.

The children sung a song, this Christmas morning,
Mellow and clear, outside my chamber door,
Waking me softly from my pleasant dreaming
Of unforgotten Christmas days of yore.

Sweetly they sung, my neighbor's happy children,
Two merry girls and one glad-hearted boy,
Repeating oft their song's rejoicing burden—
"On Christmas morn the angels sing for joy!"

Sweetly they sung; but ah! their cheerful voices
Broke up my soul's deep fount of hidden woe,
And pressing down my face against the pillow,
I let the bitter torrent overflow.

My [illegible] the little child that warbled softly
Two years ago to-day, a song like this,
And, when the joyful melody was ended,
Held up her sweet mouth for a Christmas kiss.

Only one Christmas-eve my fair-eyed darling
Lisped of dear Santa Claus her dreams among.
Only one Christmas morn, white-robed and joyful—
Lifted her clear voice to a Christmas song.

I see her little figure standing tiptoe,
To hang her dainty stocking on the wall—
O sinless heart, O perfect faith of childhood,
Believing everything and trusting all!

Peace, aching heart! O, let me trust entirely,
With faith and strength that nothing can destroy,
That my sweet baby is among the angels
Who, on this Christmas morning, sing for joy!

A Thrilling Incident.

A MAN IN A TRANCE IS SUPPOSED TO BE DEAD, AND IS DEPOSITED IN A VAULT—HE BURSTS HIS COFFIN, ESCAPES AND IS SHOT AT AS A PRETENDED GHOST.

We have before us a private letter detailing events that recently occurred in a southwestern Ohio town that gives peculiar force to the old adage that "truth is stranger than fiction." We can give the main particulars of the letter without violating confidence or giving a disagreeable prominence to the chief actor in the strange incident or his friends.

Mr. Delos W. is a wealthy and influential man residing near the village of P. On the Tuesday [illegible] the prize fight between Gallagher and Davis the old gentleman was thrown into a high state of excitement at learning that his only son John had gone to Cleveland with the avowed purpose of attending the fight, and his excitement was still further intensified at discovering that John had helped himself to his (the father's) pocket-book, containing two hundred dollars. Mr. W. fumed and fretted over the conduct of his son, and went to bed on Thursday night with a raging headache and marked symptoms of fever. He was about the place in a more composed state of mind on Friday, but the interview with John on Monday afternoon, immediately after the son's return, threw the old gentleman into a paroxysm of rage and grief, which was rendered doubly severe by John's insolence, and his acknowledgement that he had lost $150 of the money in a bet on Gallagher. Mr. W.'s frenzied feelings finally got the [illegible] of him, and he felled his son to the floor with a blow of his fist, and [illegible] the [illegible] fell down himself in a senseless condition. [illegible] in the family ensued. The mother ran [illegible] for assistance, which was [illegible] in the persons of several of the neighbors. Mr. W. was found in an apparently [illegible] with blood flowing from his mouth and nose. A subsequent examination by a physician led to the announcement by him that Mr. W. had died from the bursting of a blood vessel. [illegible] the vital spark had fled that no [illegible] were made, and the "remains" were prepared for burial as promptly as [illegible].

The funeral of the "deceased" took place the following Wednesday. Mr. W.'s body had only been confined the previous day, up to which time it had lain [illegible] in the parlor. Notwithstanding the wonderful life-look of the skin, and the color in the face, it [illegible] to no one to suggest a postponement of the burial till it was absolutely certain. The funeral was very [illegible] attended, and everybody remarked the [illegible] of the [illegible]. The "remains" were temporarily placed in one of the vaults of the cemetery, owing to the fact that a [illegible] tomb, commenced for their reception had not been completed.

At 10 o'clock on Th[illegible] night, the village was thrown into [illegible] by the report that a ghost had been seen in the cemetery [illegible] and that the old lady who had seen it [illegible] into a fit from which it was [illegible] she would recover. Thinking that [illegible] was personated by [illegible] who had played the same [illegible] a number of [illegible] with [illegible] to the [illegible] thumping [illegible] in spite of their assumed bravado [illegible] long to wait, for there, flitting among the [illegible], was a white object, plainly to be [illegible] the guns were [illegible] fast for a ghost they saw [illegible] a couple of graves. [illegible] they cautiously approached the object and turned a dark lantern upon it. [illegible] can be better imagined than described [illegible] found that the ghost was the lately [illegible] Delos W.! Whilst a portion of the party [illegible] up the bleeding and [illegible] of the old gentleman and started homeward with it, the [illegible] hastened to the vault. [illegible] Mr. W.'s coffin broken open, and laying [illegible] the floor and the coffin of a dead lady, [illegible] placed upon it, [illegible] from the shelf, and standing on end, partially broken, displaying its ghastly [illegible]. The vault door, which was a rather weak [illegible] forced open by the resurrected W.

The [illegible] to Mr. W.'s [illegible] where they [illegible] his wounds were not [illegible] that he had [illegible] his [illegible]. His story was [illegible] had been carried to the cemetery in a trance. Early on Thursday evening con[illegible] to him, and the horrid truth [illegible] upon his mind that he was coffined alive. This [illegible] additional strength to his struggles to get free and he finally succeeded in bursting the [illegible].

Mr. W. is now fast recovering, and seeming [illegible] of life yet.—Cleveland [illegible]

[illegible] D. Prentice.

[From the New York [illegible] Gazette.]

The subject of this sketch was born in Preston, Conn., Dec. 18, 1802, and was educated at Brown University, Providence, R. I., where he received his [illegible] in his twenty-first year. He afterwards [illegible] law, and was, we think, admitted to the bar. But he never practised, owing to a strong bias in favor of literary pursuits, especially in the [illegible] While a boy at college he was addicted to making pointed epigrams and sentimental verses, which won him the ill-will of some of the boys and the favor of more of the girls. His prejudices in favor of newspapers carried him to Hartford, where, five years after graduation, he assumed the editorship of the New [illegible] a literary enterprise, which he [illegible] with ability for two years. The [illegible], however, did not succeed very well pecuniarily, and Prentice, anxious for a larger field, and [illegible] liking he had imbibed for Kentucky, removed in 1830, to Louisville.

At that time [illegible] had but one rival in the [illegible] it was generally believed that it would be the great city of that section. A few months [illegible] Louisville he was offered and accepted the editorship of the Daily Journal. He very soon brought himself and his paper into notice by the ability he displayed in his editorials, and the trenchant wit of his paragraphs, a new feature in journalism, of which he may be [illegible] the author. He was an active and ardent politician, and in the first days of the Whig party attached himself to it, having formed a close friendship with Henry Clay, which continued until the death of the great Kentucky statesman. In 1840, Prentice became a power, not only in his [illegible] State but throughout the Southwest and the entire country. He was on intimate and confidential terms with the most prominent politicians and statesmen in the republic, and could have had almost any office after the election of President Harrison. He never had any desire for [illegible], however, preferring his position as a journalist to anything else. When the "Know Nothings" had such a brief but overshadowing success in the United States, the Journal espoused their [illegible]; and when the rebellion broke out the [illegible] Prentice took in favor of the Union prevented, it is generally supposed, the State from [illegible]. Whether it would not have been just as well for Kentucky to have followed her Southern [illegible] is a question not worth discussing now. But the editor of the Journal is deserving of all credit for the position he chose when so many of his best friends had gone over to the opposite side.

Prentice gave the Journal a national reputation, and [illegible] other daily in the country, outside of New York was better known from 1840 to 1860. He wrote at times with untiring industry, and for weeks he would be in the office ten or [illegible] hours a day. Then he would relax his work and for several months pay little attention to the paper. When he was in the office, he wrote, [illegible], through an amanuensis, leaders and paragraphs and often book reviews, as if he had just formed a connection with the paper and was ambitious of distinction. He had so identified himself with the Journal that everything was attributed to him, and is now, though for two years past he has contributed but very little to its columns. Other persons on the staff learned to write [illegible] paragraphs, and they are credited to Prentice, although he never saw them until after they were in print. His poems have been much admired and widely copied, both at home and abroad. They were slavishly imitated by many of the young women of the South, and the general opinion was that he had put many of the crude verses sent to him into sentimental shape, and helped their halting rhythm with his skillful pen.

Prentice met with fierce opposition in Louisville, particularly in the beginning of his career, when he was derisively called a "Yankee schoolmaster." The prevalent opinion at that time was that no man from New England would fight—a mistaken notion Prentice was commendably energetic in removing. He has never, we think, engaged in a duel, but has been conspicuous in several street fights with fists, canes and pistols—the last named weapons being his favorites. He at last convinced the most skeptical Kentuckians of his pugnacious willingness, and they long ago ceased to fix quarrels on him. Personally, Prentice is rather a homely, common-place looking man when his face is in repose. But when he is interested, and talks freely, which is seldom, his face lights up and his eyes redeem its plainness. The upper part of the face is very good, and in striking contrast with the lower, which is heavy, with a sensual cast. He has not been in firm health for some years, having suffered severely from a stroke of paralysis. When he was at work in his private office, in an old woolen jacket and loose, well-worn slippers, and seen shuffling slovenly about, he reminded one more of a dyspeptic tailor than a popular poet and a distinguished journalist. He is not temperamentally a sanguine or cheerful man, and is addicted, especially since age has come upon him, to fits of moroseness and gloom. Sometimes he will not speak to his most intimate friends for hours, and appears anxious to avoid society of all kinds. Generally he is a severe student, and when traveling is fond of reading, and in the habit of taking notes on the margin of the papers he carries in his pockets. From such notes, when he was at home, he would dictate editorials and paragraphs, and frequently makes a brilliant article out of some well-worn scrap he had exhumed from his garments.

Before the war, when he felt the deepest concern for the nation, he delivered a lecture on the Union in the principal cities of the country. It was very favorably received; for it was extremely conservative, and was believed at the time to have done much good.

He married, soon after going to Lousville, a Miss Benham, if we remember, who had the reputation of being a very interesting and clever woman. By the marriage he had two sons. Both of them joined the Southern army, and one of them was killed in a skirmish at Augusta, Kentucky. The other is still alive, but so remarkable for eccentricity and love of adventure—we state it mildly—that little faith in his future is felt even by his parents.

Prentice's name is still kept in the firm of Prentice, Osborne & Henderson, but he has not had any control or influence in the Journal for two years. He is supposed to be as loyal as ever, and for the extreme Southern course of the paper since the close of the rebellion he is not responsible. He has never made any collection of his very copious writings (though a volume of his witticisms—"Prenticeana"—was published in 1860), and seems devoid of any literary ambition. He has been accused of exceeding vanity—and one would think the accusation well founded from reading the fulsome verse he has printed to himself, from his feminine adorers; but his friends declare he is too proud to be vain, and too sagacious to care for the world's opinion.

George D. Prentice really belongs to a past generation. His day of power and usefulness is over; and if he should linger to four score, many young people, in reading his obituary, would say: "George D. Prentice! Who is he? I never heard of him."

Such is fame, and such the fate of men, however eminent, who live longer than their cotemporaries and beyond the events they have assisted to produce.

HIRAM SMITH'S
Ophthalmic Panacea!

IN BRINGING THE ABOVE-NAMED NEW REMEDY to the notice of the Public, the Proprietor begs to state a few facts in relation to it, as follows:

It or[illegible] in F[illegible] where the [illegible] of Medicine is [illegible] taught and practiced, but owing to the [illegible] properties were not known beyond the [illegible] of [illegible] in which [illegible].

He [illegible] his discovery with him, [illegible] have been indifferent to the propriety of giving it a wide-spread circulation, and, as previously in this native country, seemed only desirous of using it among his friends and neighbors.

The present proprietor was one of those neighbors, and for many years was a witness to its wonderful efficacy, and, after in [illegible] efforts to persuade the inventor to more widely disseminate the knowledge of its virtues, finally [illegible] himself the possessor of the secret of its preparation.

And now, while he does not deny that he hopes and expects to make money by its sale, he must yet lay claim to a desire to [illegible] this fellows by presenting to them a remedy which does and will cure where medical science and all experience have failed.

He wishes it to be understood that it will cure all diseases of the eye, whether of recent or long standing; but its greatest power is exhibited when it is applied to old Chronic Cases of long standing, which have resisted every other attempt to cure them, and which have been given up as hopeless and past being cured or relieved.

He asks those afflicted in this way to give it a trial, and so confident is he of its success that he instructs all his agents TO REFUND THE MONEY IF IT FAILS TO CURE.

It has, within the past year, cured cases of GRANULATED LIDS, INFLAMMATION, &c., of FIVE, SIX, NINE, FIFTEEN and SEVENTEEN YEARS STANDING, evidence of which fact is furnished in the testimony of the following persons, living at and in the neighborhood of Harrisburg, Linn county:

ALEXANDER L. WALKER was cured of inflamed eyes, of nine years standing. Had been treated by eminent physicians during all that time without effect.

Mrs. MONTGOMERY, of Harrisburg, had inflamed eyes for over two years. For one year they were so bad that she could not work. Was finally completely cured by the Ophthalmic Panacea.

E. B. MOORE, of the firm of Moore, Garst & Baber, of Harrisburg, had granulated lids for six years.

NATHANIEL BELL, of Clackamas county, had inflamed eyes—a bad case—for over fifteen years.

ROBERT RAMPEY and W. D. PORTER, of Harrisburg; JOHN M. HOLLOWAY, of Linn County; O. R. WARD, of Lane County, were all afflicted, more or less severely, with diseased eyes, and were cured by the Ophthalmic Panacea.

All the above named persons have given lengthy testimonials to the facts as above stated, which may be seen at the proprietor's office in Harrisburg.

PROSPECTUS
THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT!

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVING PURCHASED the "UNION BOOK & JOB PRINTING OFFICE," of T. F. McElroy, propose to issue a Weekly Newspaper at Olympia, on or about the 1st of December next, to be called THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT.

The paper will be devoted to the Agricultural, Mechanical, Commercial, Mineral, Moral and Political interests of the whole Territory.

In Politics we shall uphold and sustain the Union Principles of the Nation, at the same time reserving the right to be INDEPENDENT on all subjects, that we may be better able to discuss all matters in their true light, and give credit wherever it is due.

We trust our friends will circulate this prospectus generally, and assist us in getting a good list of Subscribers, Advertisements, or Job Work. We also invite correspondence from all sections of the Territory.

THE OLYMPIA TRANSCRIPT will be issued every Saturday, at $3 per annum, in advance.

Hoping to receive a share of public favor, we unfurl our banner to the breeze.

CARD.

DR. BARLOW J. SMITH'S WATER CURE AND Phrenological Institute, 627 Sacramento Street, San Francisco. This is the only Regular Water Cure in Francisco, where all curable diseases are treated without drugs. Dr. Smith was the first to establish a water cure on this coast, based upon the theory and practice of the New York Hydropathic College.

We have a truly healthful boarding place for men, women and children, and our prices are moderate.

The Phrenological organs plainly indicate the diseases to which any person, male or female, is predisposed.

Put this card in your hat, and when you come to San Francisco, call on Dr. Smith. He will give you consultation and a phrenological examination in regard to health. It will cost you nothing and may save you months and years of ill health and "bad luck."

Dr. Smith gives free lectures to gentlemen every Friday evening, on subjects pertaining to health, at his Phrenological Hall, 627 Sacramento Street.

TO THE UNFORTUNATE.
NEW REMEDIES, NEW REMEDIES
Dr. Gibbon's Dispensary,

616 KEARNEY STREET, NEAR COMMERCIAL, San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid, [illegible] and [illegible] figured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents, guardians, friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life destroying maladies, see that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon, a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of [illegible].

Seminal Weakness.

[illegible] this solitary vice, or [illegible] indulgence, is practised by the [illegible] of both sexes to an almost [illegible] with unerring certainty, the following train of morbid symptoms, unless combated by scientific medical measures, viz: Sallow countenance, dark spots under the eyes, pain in the head, ringing in the ears, noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots, uneasiness about the loins, weakness of the limbs, confused vision, blunted intellect, loss of confidence, diffidence in approaching strangers, a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society, loss of memory, hectic flushes, pimples and various eruptions about the face, furred tongue, fœted breath, coughs, consumption, [illegible] and [illegible]. If [illegible] not obtained, should apply immediately, either in person or by letter, and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease, which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr. G. will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that he was cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco quacks.

MARRIED MEN,

Or those who contemplate marriage, who are suffering under any of these [illegible] maladies, should not forget the [illegible] responsibility resting upon them nor delay to obtain immediate relief.

TO THE LADIES.

The various complicated and distressing diseases incident to females, treated with eminent success. Such as Suppressions, Irregularities, Whites, Falling of the Womb, Tumors, all Urinary Diseases, Nervous Debility, Painful or Difficult Menstruation, Barrenness, etc., will be speedily cured, without poisonous drugs, injections or unpalatable medicines of any kind. Have no delicacy in calling, no difference what your troubles may be. The afflicted are cordially invited to call and satisfy themselves.

Persons calling at Dr. Gibbon's office or sending for packages of medicines, may rely upon his zeal, [illegible] of confidential secrecy with implicit faith, and expect no more than to be charged with a fair, and mutually satisfactory remuneration for services rendered, considering the circumstances and difficulties of cases, rather than a too prevalent and selfish practice of extortion among quacks and pretenders.

DOCTOR GIBBON is responsible, and will give to each patient a written instrument, binding himself to effect a radical and permanent cure, or make no charge.

CURED AT HOME.

Persons at a distance may be CURED AT HOME, by addressing a letter to Dr. Gibbon, stating case, symptoms, length of time the disease has continued, and have medicines promptly forwarded, free from damage and curiosity, to any part of the country, with full and plain directions for use, for Ten Dollars, sent in registered letter or through Wells, Fargo & Co.

Address DR. J. F. GIBBON, 616 Kearney street, corner Commercial, San Francisco. Post Office Box 952.

REMEMBER TO PUT BOX 952 ON THE LETTER. Consultations FREE.

☞ Correspondents will please inform DR. GIBBON that they read his advertisement in the Daily Oregonian
